Pursuant to our conversation of 22 August 2003, below, please find an informal agenda for the telephonic interview of 26 August 2003, 9:30 AM

The present invention is a system that requests traffic information from a remote location. The Oshizawa reference does not have, based on our reading of the reference, this request function. There is, based on our reading, no transmission capabilities within the vehicle that can send out a request to receive the traffic information. Thus, the purpose of the interview is to understand how the reference is being interpreted to provide this request function.
